In Tenebres Lux: Darkness Into Light

Once a woman passed through halls
steeped with death, made dark by night
Her symbol was a small lamp's glow
And for a thousand tortured souls
She turned the darkness into light

One rose was mine, was in my hand
My heart was beating loud with fright
The world, my aims were altered now
My goal became maturity;
Could I turn darkness into light?

One year had passed, two roses now
Were mine, and mine a cap of white
Within my heart, there glowed a pride
Known only to a student nurse.
Could I turn darkness into light?

Three roses, now, replaced three years.
A pin of gold made dreams gleam bright
And though I smiled, my tears showed through
I'd made my hope reality
Could I turn darkness into light?

I am but one, with hands but two.
I can not change the large world's plight
Yet there are many little ways,
The least of which is just a smile
I could turn the darkness into light.

In Dedication

We, the Senior Class of Saint Luke's Hospital School of Nursing, proudly dedicate the 1966 "In Tenebris Lux" to Miss Carol Diller, Associate Director of the School of Nursing.

Miss Diller has helped to bring an appropriate and inspiring beginning and end to our nursing education through her teaching of Fundamental and Professional Adjustments in Nursing.

By the sharing of our sadnesses, our joys, our anxieties, our fears...we have become endeared to this administrator and have seen Miss Diller as teacher, as friend, as helpmate.

To Carol Diller we dedicate this 1966 yearbook with love and respect for truly bringing us "from darkness into light."

Kent State University

Entrance to Kent State welcomes the St. Luke's Freshmen.

The Class of 1968 began their careers as student nurses at Kent State University in September, 1965. As full-time students, they took an active part in university life.

Throughout the year, there were activities with the junior and senior students in Cleveland. In summer, 1966, they will continue at St. Luke's.

Kent's rapidly expanding campus has many modern buildings.

Kent Students relax in a dormitory lounge.

This is the beginning of a three year career of signing in and out!

When the freshmen leave Kent they will start their instruction in clinical nursing.

Standing by prize booth were judges, Dr. and Mrs. Farrall and Mr. and Mrs. Aitken.

Pat Murton, representative of winning 3 West, displayed first prize, a cake donated by Miss Lucy Allen.

Project-planning and booth decorating preceeded the gaiety of December eleventh's bazaar and open house, "Christmas Around The World." Not only was the day profitable for SGO, but pleasant for students, family, and friends who attended.

Prizes were awarded in two categories: Booth decoration and profits.

4E-5E tied for second place with their "Swiss Kitchen."

5W presented "French Needle Shoppe" and tied for second place.

4W sold candles in the "Finnish Shoppe."

3E's "Swedish Living Room" was the scene for the sale of Christmas stockings.

THE JOURNEY

I began a journey---

The way was dark. The signs were few.
Yet, others had walked this pathway;
. . . They had sought the light too.

Young was I and unknowing,
But willing--so willing to learn.
Though my head was very full of dreams,
. . . With ideals my heart did burn.

I would comfort them in their sadness;
In pain they would come to me;
With warmth would I smile; with tenderness touch
From ill shadows they would be set free.

So I took those first, faltering steps;
My future seemed here and now.
Yet for patients I was not caring,
Only learning the why and the how.

One day we defined "Professional"
And mastered the making of a bed,
But those old dreams seemed to be fading
As other plans filled their stead

Research, there was in English;
The Krebs Cycle to learn for A&P;
A bus to catch in the morning,
And at night a call - "That's for me?"

Suddenly--quite suddenly---
The awaited time was here!
In white I stood insecure,
Feeling not courage--but fear

Even with all my good intension
The patient was hard to see
Through the techniques of procedure
And the instructor's opinion of me

Some distance down the path I came,
As I was faced with experiences new.
And gradually, as my knowledge broadened,
My perspective came to change too.

Of life I saw the beginning
In the tiny squalling child;
Of life I saw the ending--
At times tragic, at times mild.

I saw in most noble courage,
Yet many were wrapped in fear.
Others I met with wealth and pride
While some wore poverty dear.

Now I would not merely see
With hands held fast at my side
A gift of help was mine to give,
As in the light I'd come to bide.
